Benson To Present Lectures Next Week

By Marie Rhoden

The John T. Benson Lecture Series, which is an annual event here at Trevecca, will be held February 16-20, during the regular 10:00 chapel hour.

Mr. John T. Benson, Jr. has sponsored the series for many years, but this is the first time for him to personally present a lecture series.

The lecture series this year will center around the book of Job. On Monday, the first day of the series, Mr. Benson will present "Job, the Man" as a "failure" story. In contrast he will present on the following day the "success" story of "Job, the Saint".

Wednesday's program promises to be both interesting and rewarding. It will consist of a round table discussion by Mr. John T. Benson, Jr., his son Mr. Robert Benson, and Dr. T. E. Martin, pastor of First Church of the Nazarene here in Nashville. They will discuss such intriguing questions as "How is it that Satan, cast from Heaven reappears among the sons of God?" and "Is Satan God's appointed agent to test men?"

Mr. John Benson clearly states his own views as to the purpose for this type of program. "I have proposed to have on Wednesday a round table discussion with Dr. T. E. Martin and my son Robert. We are not out here altogether to entertain the students of Trevecca with a lot of sparkling wit—however, I will have to acknowledge that there is a considerable wit in Dr. Martin and my son, Bob." He added that the questions to be discussed by the panel "represent some theological puzzles, so to speak, in the Book of Job. They may even represent deeper thoughts of mind that students come up against in this day and time."

The lecture on Thursday will deal with Eliphaz, Beldad, and Zophar and excerpts from their speeches. On Friday the topic will be "Job's Triumph and Restoration". Mr. Benson will conclude the series with some

Trevadore Quartet Chosen

The 1970 Trevadores quartet was chosen this week. Making up this year's quartet is: Jerome Hancock, first tenor; David Blue, second tenor; Randal Smith, baritone; and Jordan Conger, bass.

"The four were chosen," said Mr. Dougharty," on such things as voice quality, sight-singing ability, spiritual strength, and personality."

Of the four chosen, two have returned from last year's quartet. Randal Smith is a four-year Trevadores member. Randal is from Brunswick, Georgia and is a religion major. Jordan Conger is a music major from Tifton,

Board Approves Tuition Hike Financial Campaign, Staff Changes

Trevecca Nazarene College Board of Trustees, held Wednesday, February 11, approval was given to a four dollar an hour tuition hike, a Southeastern Zone "Victory Campaign," and several new administrativefaculty appointments.

The Board adopted a $1,-476,000 budget for the new academic year. The new budget is $182,599 less than the present yars budget and is based on an average total enrollment of 700 students.

A zone wide $650,000 "Victory Campaign" will begin later this year. President Mark R. Moore stated that professionol consultants would probably be used to help in acquiring the funds. "Workers will visit homes of Nazarene families throughout the zone asking for contributions," Moore said. One third

On February 13 in McClurkan the annual Valentine Pageant sponsored by the Sophomore Class will be held. Nine contestants: Mary Boswell, Terri Channell, Susan Patton, Carmel Robinson, Sharon Cronise, Ruth Butler, Brenda Stroman, Margaret Headrick, and Charlotte Trogdon will be presenting their talent. Based upon poise, quality of performance, attitude, and appearance, three finalists will be chosen by judges outside of Trevecca. The Master of Ceremonies will be Professor Mund. Entertainment will be provided by Mike Biggs and his combo.

The banquet will be held on Valentine's Day at Old Hickory Country Club on Hadley Avenue at 8:00 p.m. The special guests of the Sophomore Class will be the three finalists of the pageant. The theme is "A Time For Us," and the decoration will be of a Roman style. Master of Ceremonies for the evening will be Dr. Paul Cleckner and the special speaker will be Mr. John Hancock. Entertainment will be provided by the Encounters. The 1970 Valentine will be crowned the beginning of the

In the annual meeting of the of the funds received will go to needed repairs and improvements such as the cafeteria and dormitories. All "Dollar A Year, money received after June 1 will also go to improvements.

The rise in tuition to $22.00 an hour will raise total student costs to $180.00 a year, based on an average load of fifteen hours a quarter. Ramon Richards, Business Manager, stated that inflation had been the chief cause for the raise, but he said the school did not plan to raise board or room costs. Richards indicated that students were paying 59.4 percent of their total cost and that he expected this to drop next year to 58.5 percnt.

Mr. John Donoho of Champaign, Illinois will become the new Dean of Student Affairs in the fall. Donoho has a masters degree in counseling and an Ed.S. degree in Educational psychology. Dr. William M. Strickland, presently holding the position, will take over as the new Head of the Department of Religion. The present Acting Head of that Department, Dr. Mildred Wynkoop, will become the new Head of the Department of Missions-Anthropology-Sociology. Academic Dean, Dr. Stanton P. Parry also announced that Mrs. Lora Donoho will become a full professor in the Department of Health and Physical Education. Mrs. Donoho will receive her Ph.D. in Physical Education in June.

Nearing Application Deadline Applications for financial asdents don't plan ahead of time. They use all the money they can save and all the money their parents can give them for fall quarter and then try to get financial aid for winter and spring. At this time the money has already been distributed and there are no funds available."

In awarding financial aid, students who are currently enrolled are considered prior to freshmen and transfer students coming in. Aid is awarded first according to the greatest need and according to the date of application.

The Regional Panel of Offices of Education in Atlanta has received Trevecca's application for aid for next year and has recommended an increase of $100,000 over what was allotted for the current year. However, this does not mean this will be received. The amount Trevecca is finally allotted depends upon the recommendations of President Nixon and upon what Congress decides.

In addition to these federal programs, there are other types of aid available to students who do not qualify for federal aid. These include the Guaranteed Loan Plan and the Tuition Plan. There are also certain scholarships awarded by the Scholar-(Continued on page 3, Col. 2) annual convention at New Orleans, AFT President David Selden said "We are growing faster in the colleges than in any other section of the educational field. Four years ago no college teachers in the nation were covered by a collective bargaining contract. Today, due to the efforts of the AFT, several thousand college teachers enjoy the benefits of collective bargaining and we expect that number to increase."

Richard A. Hixson, director of the AFT's colleges and universities department, said the number of campus locals had increased from 53 in October, 1967, to almost 200.

He said the union had won collective bargaining contracts on about 25 campuuses, mostly at community, junior, and technical colleges.

The United States President Richard M. Nixon has declared war. Perhaps the student body of Trevecca and others should declare war also. Nixon has begun the fight against the pollution of a filthy nation; someone at Trevecca perhaps should begin the fight against a filthy campus.

No doubt there will be some notorious person who deems the subject of this editorial not worthwhile. This person will say that Trevecca is a beautiful campus located on a rolling grassy hill used during the Civil War. But let this person take a much closer look at the renowned college campus.

Take a stroll through one of the illustrious buildings of a growing Trevecca. Most will note, particularly in the older buildings of the institution, an unmistakable crust of many years of accumulated filth and dirt. Portions of McClurkan look like they were part of the Civil War and have not been touched since. Many areas of the administration building show many years of unmistakable careless cleaning. Dormitory rooms have, in some instances, not been thoroughly clean since the beginning of school, if then. And through those gentle trees on campus blow many pieces of carlessly distributed litter, particularly around the glorious "Dipsty Dumper" areas.

Generally there is no single person or department which blame can be placed upon, but it is rather an unthoughtful condition which our minds have allowed us to live with.

True, in building maintenance there are supervisory problems. Many of those working really do not know what the word "clean" means. And what is even a greater disgust, some are not shown what "clean" is. There has also developed a problem with some working students who could care less how they do their job.

The solutions for these problems are actually rather simple. Better supervision must be provided with perhaps the addition of a check system. The check system with the list of specific requirements for cleaning an area could be an effective judge for undermanned supervisors. For those student employes who are worthless it might be necessary for the college to initiate a "Get Tough" policy.

But the intention behind this editorial was not to slam any particular group or individual. Students in general should take more care and show more concern to their helpless Trevecca environment.

Why not have a general clean up week or day in which war is declared on Campus Filth? Could not the service clubs begin the spirit of campus cleanliness? Perhaps the Student Council and the College Administration should take active steps toward a "Clean Week."

Certainly sudents visiting from sister institutions can not be pleased with a polluted college campus.

Why not work positively today for a cleaner campus tomorrow?

Applicable or Practical

Life has often been compared to a game, but a current pop tune seems to point out in a very bold manner that everyone doesn't play by the same rules. In fact, all are not playing the same game. This sounds rather shocking to us, for in our protective surroundings, we have somewhat of a concensus as to the game, the rules, and the strategy needed to win. This is not bad, I mean, wanting to win at your own thing. But even though we acknowledge other games, we are still shocked when we hear of youth our age turning to alcoholism, drugs, suicide, etc. We must look for a time beyond ourselves, our rules, even our own game. We must try to understand, not merely acknowledge, other modes of achievement of one's goal. This would necessitate a going an extra step of sympathy, concern, and tolerance to attain some degree of understanding. It will also require a little investigation, confrontation, and even integration of some of the new knowledge gained into your own strategy.

This all sounds fine, but is it applicable or practical? Don't we all practice this now? Well, if you can answer these questions, maybe you are. What if a young person confides in you and says he is on heroin or marijuana. Could you possibly be of any help (not in a judgemental sense) and encouragement? Could you talk his language and communicate with him? Take the same situation dealing with premarital sex, alchol, or some other inappropriated behaviour. How would you react?

Do we or can we possibly speak to those outside our league? Do we even want to? I think we can, should, even have to if we are to be a constructive member of our society. But more than that, we have a higher calling, one from the Great Example.

Inter Collegiate (from p. 1) mont Bible College, Kentucky Christian College, and Milligan College. Unlike previous years the Trevecca teams will travel by chartered bus to away games.

Coach William Green will handle the baseball team, while Boner will take charge of the golf team. Boner stated that it would be necessary to acquire additional personnel for a tennis coach. Approximately ten to thirteen games will be scheduled for baseball, tennis, and golf.

Boner then added, "With the approval of the baseball program, renovation of the present athletic field will be a necessity." The field presently is unfit for any intercollegiate activity.

It was also revealed that an award system was set up for Varsity lettermen over a four year period.

The only Nazarene college that Trevecca will be playing in basketball for the new year is Mount Vernon Nazarence College in Ohio.

Boner stated that he hoped to put increasing emphasis on the Junior Varsity basketball squad with Green continuing as coach.

For the 1969-70 basketball season Boner said that about an average of $300.00 was received at the ticket office for each home game.

"Bleachers are in top priority for additions to the gymnasium under some new proposals," stated Boner.

The Freshman class was granted permission to sponsor a program with Gene Cotton on April 11.

The Ministerial Association was given permission to sponsor a skating party on the date of March 6.

A letter was sent to Dr. Strickland requesting that the cafeteria open at 4:30 on Sunday evenings.

A letter was sent to the Business office recommending that a time clock be placed in the Science Building.

A recommendation was sent to the Post Office suggesting that an inter-departmental box be placed in the Science Building.

A motion was made that Carl Pratt be recognized as the official representative of CWA to Stuco. The motion was tabled until study could be made concerning the legality of such action.

the Board was referred to a study committee which will report next year. The committee is to be appointed by the Executive Committee of the Board.

The Board re-elected all present officers with Dr. Otto Stucki as Chairman.

Four new Board Members began serving during the meeting, they were: Dr. Homer Adams and Rev. Jack Lee both of Georgia, and B. W. Downing and George Privette both of North Carolina.

Hopefully, our education on the "hill" will not remove us from the day we live in. Rather, it should prepare us for the morrow as well.

Financial Grants To Institutions

The Department of Education will distribute $345,000 from the general budget to Nazarene educational institutions. Most of the colleges will receive $1,000 each. The two which are church-wide in scope and have no defined educational zone will get more: Seminary, $205,000; Bible college, $125,000.—N.I.S. the trouble is since we now have the third cafeteria manager in as many years with still relatively no progress being made. It is the responsibility of the administration to make the condition of the students' cafeteria suitable for enjoying a good meal. It is also the administration's duty to hold the servicing company to the contract to which they agreed.

Students are paying $150.00 per quarter for the meal plan. At present there is an extremely high overhead charge taken from the student's initial payment and no one seems to know exactly where that overhead charge is going. Perhaps it might be better to take that money and apply it for a better quality of food and a better quality service.

READING Co-eds COURSES CAN BE HELPFUL Many people ask "What can

I expect to gain in my reading skills if I enroll in a course such as Developmental Reading?" Now that we have had the completion of three classes last quarter, we are able to determine what some have done. On this basis, it may give you some idea of the possibilities open to you if you truly are interested in improving your reading skills.

The instruments used to determine reading achievement here at Trevecca give us three separevaluations-vocabulary, ate At the magic moment tomorcomprehension, and words per row night, 1969 Valentine queen minute. For example, one student had a gain of 20 percentile, one 31 percentile, one 27 percentile, and many had per-ship Committee. The Committee reviews the individual case and makes the special award from funds which the College controls. An example of this type of aid is the Winnie McFadden Missionary Fund. Altogether there are forty-one separate scholarship funds. Some of these have special requirements, and the College has no control over whom they go to. It simply distributes the funds as stated by the rules of the scholarship.

The Scholarship Committee also serves the function of establishing basic policies, such as the grade point average required for academic scholarships. They meet whenever the need arises. This may be to discuss policy or to review individual cases.

As stated by Mr. Wall, "If there is a genuine need, there is assistance for the student who is willing to work out a program for which he qualifies. However, now is the time to start work or these.'

centile gains from 10 percentile up to that mentioned. The highly motivated student who is really interested in improving himself in vocabulary growth can make a much larger gain than the average.

The percentile gain in comprehension follows pretty closely with the gain made in vocabular. Our students here had a 61/2% gain. Again there is a great variance among students. One student made a 37 percentile gain, one 21 percentile, one 28 percentile, one 50 percentile, one 25 percentile; while several others had gains which were less but much more than the average percentile gain.

Most people are conscious of the amount of words per minute gain that they can make during the prograss of the course. Usually, this is the most significant gain made. Our records here tended to support the fact that people can make a very significant gain in reading. The average gain made here at Trevecca was 79 words per minute. One person had a gain of 317 words per minute. This was over a hundred percentile gain. Another person had 288 words per minute gain. The fact that the average gain was nearly 100 words per minute is an indication that several people gained over 100 words per minute.

What does this report mean to you a student at Trevecca? It means that if you have the desire and/or the need to increase your reading skills, you can. Facilities are available if you want to take advantage of them. If interested, contact Dr. Lee, Adm. 100.

A Pause For The Trojans

"Trojan: A person of Troy; one who keeps on doing what he begins; A companion ready for anything, no matter how bad." That is how Webster defines a Trojan. The Trojan is also the symbol of the Trevecca basketball team, and the definition by Webster seems to apply here too. Coach Boner and the Trojans have conducted a successful campaign in the basketball season and deserve our congratulations and thanks.

Congratulations for finishing what they started out to do; have a winning season; for being ready for anything and taking it in stride. Many times they found themselves behind in the score, but refused to quit. The problems of injuries and normal mistakes by young players were taken in stride. Even the defeats were used as springboards to bounce back and not as pillows to sleep on. Yes, congratulations are in order for this season's play.

Reflection on this season also calls for a strong "thank you" to Coach Boner and the Trojans. Thanks for being a real credit to Trevecca. We have been proud of your conduct and sportsmanship, both on and off the basketball floor.

When the attitudes displayed by some of our opponents were very poor, yours were top caliber. When the officiating appeared to be questionable, your reactions were in good taste. When tempers could have flared, your sportsmanship kept things calm.

For these reasons and the boost you have given to school spirit, we extend our congratulations and thanks, and our best wishes for next season.

Negro Enrollment Up 85 Percent In Four Years

(ACP)-The number of Negroes attending college increased 85 per cent between 1964 and 1968, according to figures just released by the U.S. bureau of the census. Total college enrollment increased 46 per cent in that period.

In 1964, the report said, 234,000 Negroes were enrolled in colleges and universities, representing about 8 per cent of all Negroes between 18 and 24 years

By the fall of 1968, 434,000 Negroes, representing 15 per cent of those in the same age bracket, were attending college. Among whites of the same age group, 27 per cent were enrolled in college in 1968, compared with 22 per cent in 1964.

In 1968, Negroes accounted for 6 per cent of all students attending college.

During the entire pageant she was aware of her parents sitting in the audience. More than anything she wanted to make them proud of her. She wanted to look her best and perform her best. Sarah said that again this year there were many deserving girls running for the title. She wished them all the best of luck!

Q Mr. Benson where did you get your schooling?

A As for me, when I started into high school, my father and mother started me in a very fine private high school here in Nashville. I utterly failed. I think I passed in one subject, history, and made a dim 75 percent there. I was mortally ashamed, for my elder brothers mastered in stride these studies. Then my mother and father suggested that I go to high school at Trevecca. I did. I managed to get through, but I think it took me five or six years to get through high school. Then I came back to Trevecca and graduated from the Junior college, I think in 1926.

Q How did you meet your wife?

A While in Trevecca, I met my present wife who is named Jimmie, a name that she doesn't particularly like. Her last name was Root. We married in 1926, and have had five children. We have managed to stay together. This is some achievement I guess, particularly when I think of my own perversness.

Q How were you involved with Trevecca?

A I think it must have been around 1924-25, that Trevecca was without a president. My father stepped in to be president for a few months. At that time I was in Trevecca, and having some business experience, he put me in the front office collecting accounts and buying supplies. About all I ordered was a side of beef and a sack of cabbage, but we made the best of it.

Q Was Trevecca having any problems then?

A Like a great many things in life, poor old Trevecca had troubles on the inside, troubles on the outside. I don't really know which was the worst. The creditors were pursuing the college debts and on account of those hard circumstances, a lawsuit developed, the creditors took over the Gallatin Road property and Trevecca moved out on White's Creek Pike and then moved down to First Church for one year. Then the move was made to Murfreesboro Road.

Q When were you elected to the Board of Trustees?

A Somewhere in the early 1930's, I was elected on the Board. I have not had a continuous membership, although I suppose for the majority of the years since the 1930's I have

A MAN OF TREVECCA

An Interview with John T. Benson, Jr., Lecturer for the John T. Benson Lecture Series

Although Mr. John T. Benson, Jr. has sponsored the John T. Benson Lecture Series for many years he has never given the series himself. Mr. Benson is very active and is an enthusiastic supporter of Trevecca. The following interview only begins to reveal the true nature of this remarkable man in his life and story with Trevecca.

Job

Q Mr. Benson what will be your main purpose in presenting the talks on Job.?

A It has been my feeling that down through the years, most Christians are but vaguely familiar with Job. They rather prefer to remember Job as a great saint and hero in which some very famous passages are to be quoted from him, such as, "though He slay me, yet I will trust him," etc. Actually, Job is one of the most impatient men in history. He is querelous, defiant and in many respect I would say, a religious failure at points.

Q But how can this subject be pertinent to the youth of today?

A Being 65 years of age, I can't very well say that I know too much about youth-it seems a very far and distant thing; but I would presume that the vast majority of Trevecca students look and dream ahead to a life of usefulness, a life of success, and a life of contribution. It probably is true that Job in a sense, is a drama. It is a drama of life, but wherever you find life, there is that inevitable drama of life, but wherever you find life, there is that inevitable drama of the give and take, its sorrows, its heartaches, its disappointments. I know that whether the students at Trevecca care to acknowledge it or not, that just ahead of them is a series of reverses just waiting for them.

A Well, even when his wife tells him "to curse God and die," which we sort of mis-read to some extent, if I may go off on a tangent here. Mrs. Job really did not tell her husband to turn around and use profane language against God. She simply said that a "bargain between you and God is over, why odn't you just tell God so." That he steadfastly refused to do under any circumstances.

Lite History

Q Now that we have all that, can you tell us a little bit about yourself?

A My name is John T. Benson, Jr. I am 65 years of age. I was born in Nashville, Tennessee. My father was the late John T. Benson, Sr., who deceased in 1930. He was born around 1862, in Nashville, Tennessee.

Q Where did your family originally come from?

A My grandfather, came from Smith County, Carthage, Tennessee, and the story goes that he came to Nashville, a poor boy with all his belongings in a paper sack.

Q What about your family? A My father and mother were married, I believe somewhere around 1880-82 and there were seven children in the familv. I am the youngest of the seven. My first and oldest brother must have been born around 1886, and his name was John. but he died as an infant. Thus, when I came along some twenty years later, and my elder brother had been deceased so long, my parents said, "Well, let's give the name of 'Junior' the father's name, to the youngest child. Q What was the religious background of your family?

A Actually, my father and mother were Methodists. When Bro. McClurkan came to town, and I suppose it must have been around 1896 or '97, and held some tent meetings, they were attracted to him.

Q What kind of a business was your father then engaged in?

A Ultimately, my father, at that time was in the brokerage business, gave up the business in 1902 and went into business with Bro. McClurkan. Eventually Bro. McClurkan did get out of the book business and my father staved on.

Q Did your father print anything other than books?

A He published his first gospel song book in 1904, since he and my mother loved gospel music. Subsequently, they published a number of other song books up to his death in 1930. The business that he started with Bro. McClurkan was called the Pentecostal Mission Publishing Co. and was later changed to the John T. Benson had blessed our efforts, and from those meager sales of $12,000.00 a year the John T. Benson Publishing Co. has a sales of about a million and a half dollars a year. I am quite pround of it because I think that somehow, God has been good in that re-

Q How did your family become associated with the Church of the Nazarene and Trevecca?

A Father, somewhere along about 1904, withdrew from the Methodist church and associated himself with Bro. McClurkan on a full-time basis, that is to say, he left the Methodist church, he and my mother. My mother had played the organ in the Methodist Church and my father had directed the music at the old Tulip Street Methodist Church for years.

Father associated himself, as I have said, with Bro. McClurkan, and after Bro. McClurkan died, the work here at Trevecca, and the work of the church suffered. A great many people felt the local church should become associated with some institution, and the Nazarenes had been very kind to us, and Bro. Mc-spect.

Q What else can you tell us about Job and his life?

Publishing Company.

Q What became of your father's business?

A Later, about 1936, when father's estate was settled, there was the thought that the estate would see John T. Benson Publishing Co., but I persuaded my brothers that we should buy the little business in. Bro. Lillenas had come down and very generously offered twelve hundred dollars for the business. Since that time, the heavenly Father Clurkan had been friendly with the Nazarene Church, so the local church went in (1916) with the Nazarene church and so did Trevecca.

Q Did your father hold any position in the Church?

A My dad became a member of the General Board for the Church of the Nazarene some time around 1918, and held that position until his death. He was also on the local church served on the Board.

Q What are your feeling about Trevecca today?

A Of course, I am immensely proud of Trevecca, I feel proud that it has become accredited. I long for it to be a great scholastic institution. Therefore, I predict that one hundred years from now, this institution will have had an astonishing success far beyond our fondest dreams.

Covenant Edges Trevecca Ridley Sinks 39

Ron Alxander's 34 points and a hot hand from the free throw line enabled the Scots from Covenant College to hand the Trevecca Trojans a 108-104 defeat in the TNC gym Friday night.

But it was the smaller Nelson Ridley for the Trojans that took top scoring honors as he enjoyed his best night of the season with a whopping 39 points. Brent Godbey followed him with 19 points. It was Ridlev that kept the Trojans in contention with driving layups that brought about numerous fouls and enabled him to add 13 points from the free throw line.

Despite the loss, the Trojans provided the students with one of the most exciting games since their beginning as they rallied in the final 4 minutes to overcome a 15 point deficit that the Scots held most of the second half to pull within 2 and give Covenant the scare of their life. A jump shot from 15 feet with 15 seconds left fell short and Covenant walked off the floor grateful for a victory.

Both teams hit a torrid 83 per cent of their charity shots. SCORING

Trojans Cage Cougars In Weekend Doubleheader

The Trevecca Trojans added another score in the win column January 30, in their first game against Mount Vernon Nazarene College by beating the Cougars 102-83. The Trojans statrted out very slowly in the first half as Mount Vernon led the Trojans for most of the time. However, as the buzzer sounded ending play in the half, the score was tied 39-39.

ferent story for the fired up Trevecca team. The Trojans outscored the Cougars 63-44 in this half and tallied up the final 102 points to give Mount Vernon an impressive defeat. Trevecca shot 58% from the field the second half to improve their performance in the first half. Scoring was rather evenly spread with six players in double figures.

Bryan Downs Treveca 84-72

Bryan College, using superior rebounding and deadly shooting defeated the Trevecca Trojans 84-72

The winners opened up a large lead in the first half and led at inermission 49-30. Trevecca tried a full court press and cut the lead to three, but costly floor mistakes opened the margin up once again.

Charles Queener and Steve Roddy were the big guns for the winners hitting 24 and 19 points respectively. Roddy was the leading rebounder in the game as he pulled in 21. Bryan outre bounded Trevecca 59-33.

The Trevecca Trojan squad was led in scoring by Charles Torain who pumped in 26 markers followed by Nelson Ridley with 15.
